

Essays on Empirical Macroeconomics

Thesis submitted by

Alberto CARUSO

in fulfilment of the requirements of the
PhD Degree in Quantitative Economics
Supervisor: Professor Philippe WEIL

Academic year: 2019-2020

Thesis jury :

Philippe WEIL (Université libre de Bruxelles, Chair)
Gani ALDASHEV (Université libre de Bruxelles)
Christine DE MOL (Université libre de Bruxelles)
Domenico GIANNONE (Amazon)
Lucrezia REICHLIN (London Business School)

Contents

Acknowledgments	1
1 Introduction	4
2 Nowcasting with the help of foreign indicators	11
2.1 Introduction	12
2.2 The model	15
2.3 Data	17
2.4 Results	20
2.4.1 Out-of-sample evaluation	20
2.4.2 News analysis	29
2.5 Conclusions	31
3 Macroeconomic news and market reaction: Surprise indexes meet nowcasting	33
3.1 Introduction	34
3.2 Methodology and surprise indexes	36
3.2.1 Market-based news and weights	36
3.2.2 Model-based news and weights	37
3.3 Data and nowcasting model	40
3.4 Results	42
3.4.1 News analysis	44
3.5 Conclusions	48
A. 3 Appendix	50
A.3.1 Other correlations	50
A.3.2 Four different surprise indexes	51
4 Does real-time macroeconomic information help to predict interest rates?	52
1 Introduction	53

2	Model	55
1	Yields	56
2	Real-time macro variables	57
3	Interest rate surveys	57
4	Joint model	59
3	Data	60
4	Estimation and preliminary results	65
5	Out-of-sample forecast	66
6	Results	68
1	Real-time macro data: is it useful?	68
2	Interest rate surveys: do they help?	71
7	Conclusions	76
A. 4	Appendix - Estimation procedure	78
A.4.1	State-space representation	78
A.4.2	Estimation	79
5	Financial and Fiscal Interaction in the Euro Area Crisis: This Time was Different	82
1	Introduction	83
2	Fiscal and Financial Facts	89
3	A Macro-Finance VAR for the Euro Area	96
4	This Time Was Different	100
1	What if the 2008 crisis had been just a ‘normal’ recession?	101
2	The debt-deficit dynamics	103
3	Unconditional forecast and trends	105
5	Conclusions and discussion	106
A.5	Appendix - Data	109
A.5.1	Euro Area Data	109
A.5.2	Data Details	111
B.5	Appendix - Financial interventions	112
B.5.1	Public Interventions in Support of the Financial Sector During the Crisis	112
C.5	Appendix - Robustness	114
C5.1	Results up to 2017	114
C5.2	Results relative to the Euro Area without Germany	114
C5.3	Results replacing the house price index	118